How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

The Fund posted 5.50% positive return for Institutional Class shares during the twelve-month period ended November 30, 2025. For the second consecutive year, our top performer was the heating and cooling company Comfort Systems (FIX), which gained nearly 100%. It was joined in the triple-digit winners' column by investment management firm Sprott, Inc. (SII), Allient, Inc. (ALNT), a global engineering and manufacturing company, and Sphere Entertainment Co. (SPHR), owner of the hottest attraction in Las Vegas. There were no significant detractors, although a handful of companies experienced low double-digit declines. Real asset holdings, including Mobile Infrastructure Corp. (BEEP) and UMH Properties (UMH), experienced valuation pressure as higher interest rates and lingering tariff uncertainty weighed on sentiment. Semiconductor-related exposure, including Axcelis Technologies (ACLS), also detracted due to cyclical cooling in capital equipment orders. Despite these headwinds, most portfolio companies continued to generate healthy free cash flow and maintain conservative balance sheets, positioning them well for eventual reacceleration in earnings growth.
